AMERICAN ACADEMY OF PSYCHIATRY AND THE LAW
2001 ANNUAL MEETING

GOALS:
To inform attendees about current major issues in forensic psychiatry and afford them opportunities to refresh skills in the fundamentals of the discipline, engage in discussion with peers on the standards governing the profession, and update their present knowledge.

CME TARGET AUDIENCE:
Psychiatrists and other physicians working at the interface of law and psychiatry.

OBJECTIVES:
Participants will improve their skills in forensic psychiatry in the following three areas:
1) Service, including treatment of forensic patients, development of service delivery strategies, and enhancement of consultative abilities at the interface of psychiatry and the legal profession;
2) Teaching, including new methods of training of forensic psychiatrists and classification of the tasks and functions of a forensic psychiatrist, and
3) Research, gaining access to scientific data in areas that form the basis for practice of the discipline.

ACCREDITATION:
The American Academy of Psychiatry and the Law is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to sponsor continuing medical education for physicians.

The American Academy of Psychiatry and the Law designates this continuing medical education activity for up to 30 credit hours in Category 1 of the Physicians Recognition Award of the American Medical Association. Each physician should claim only those hours of credit that he/she actually spent in the educational activity.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 25, 2001
PTSD in Forensic Psychiatry
2:15 PM – 6:15 PM COST $50.00
Roger Pitman, MD, Charlestown, MA
Perhaps more than any other psychological or medical disorder, post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD) has influenced, and been influenced by, the law. In civil law, the PTSD diagnosis represents landmark recognition that an external event can serve as the direct cause of a mental disorder. In criminal trials, PTSD is unique among mental disorders in its invocation by both prosecution and defense. The dissociative “flashback” experience has opened a new dimension in insanity and related criminal defenses, insofar as a non-psychotic defendant with PTSD may be alleged to have briefly lost contact with reality and became “temporarily insane.” The presence of PTSD in a victim may be cited by the prosecution as “syndrome evidence” supporting the occurrence of a criminal act such as rape. Incentives such as the prospect of financial gain or the avoidance of criminal punishment cast a shadow over the validity of the PTSD diagnosis in legal matters and challenge the forensic psychiatrist to produce data that will withstand scientific and legal scrutiny. This course will provide an overview of civil and criminal legal issues in PTSD. It will also present state-of-the-art psychodiagnostic, psychometric, and psychophysiologic techniques for forensic psychiatric evaluation and testimony involving PTSD.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 26, 2001
Risk Assessment for Violence
8:00 AM – 12:00 NOON COST $50.00
Phillip Resnick, MD, Cleveland, OH
This course is designed to provide a practical map through the marshy minefield of uncertainty in risk assessment for violence. Recent research on the validity of psychiatric predictions of violence will be presented. The demographics of violence and the specific incidence of violence in different psychiatric diagnoses will be reviewed. Dangerousness will be discussed in persons with psychosis, amnesia, depression, and substance abuse. Special attention will be given to persons with specific delusions, command hallucinations, premenstrual tension, and homosexual panic. Personality traits associated with violence will be discussed. Childhood antecedents of adult violence will be covered. Advice will be given on taking a history from potentially dangerous patients and countertransference feelings. Instruction will be given in the elucidation of violent threats, sexual assaults, and “perceived intentionality.” Finally, a videotape will be shown to allow participants to identify risk factors and develop a violence prevention plan for a man who attempted to kill his boss.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 26, 2001
Neuropsychiatric Assessment in Forensic Practice
2:15 PM – 6:15 PM COST $50.00
Angela Hegarty, MD, BCh, BAO, North Great River, NY
William Barr, PhD, New York, NY
Participants in this course will be taken, step by step, through the process of a forensic neuropsychiatric evaluation, from initial contact, in which the psychiatrist is faced with the task of evaluating his/her own expertise, through testimony. Use and interpretation of neuropsychiatric data in a variety of forensic contexts will be addressed using extensive case examples, and active dialogue with participants, who are encouraged to bring their own case examples for discussion during the question and answer periods following each didactic segment. Faculty will present algorithms that will organize the approach to the neuropsychiatric history and differential diagnosis. Special attention will be paid to areas such as occupational neurotoxicology with which the general psychiatrist may be less familiar. A detailed review of the neuropsychiatric mental status examination, including screening for disorders of attention, impulse control, language, memory, intellectual functioning and condition will be presented. Use, limitations and interpretation of neuropsychological testing, electrophysiological tests, and neuroimaging data will be discussed. Application of neuropsychiatric data to legal issues, and their admissibility in court, will be reviewed. Checklists, examination guides, suggestions for further reading and references, and other resources will be included in the handouts.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 27, 2001  2:15 PM – 6:00 PM  COST $50.00

Male Hypersexuality Disorders: New Clinical Insights

Richard B. Kreuger, MD, New York, NY
Martin P. Kafka, MD, Belmont, MA

An area of recent interest in the sexual and paraphilic literature has involved the occurrence and phenomenology of the so-called hypersexual disorders, with some authors suggesting the addition of this category to the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of the American Psychiatric Association. Similar to the paraphilias, they present as hypersexuality involving more "normative" sexual behavior, such as compulsive masturbation, compulsive telephone sex, or compulsive use of pornography, which becomes dysfunctional and a source of complaint for some individuals. This course will review the operational definitions and clinical manifestation of the paraphilias and paraphilia-related disorders (also referred to as sexually compulsive disorders, sexual addictions, and/or hypersexual disorders). Dr. Kafka will summarize his data from several studies, which examine lifetime Axis I diagnoses comorbid with sexual impulsivity disorders, the paraphilias and paraphilia-related disorders. He will review the possible role of monoamine neurotransmitters in human sexual appetitive behavior. He will also discuss psychopharmacological treatment implications, including the use of serotonin-specific reuptake inhibitor antidepressants, psychostimulant augmentation, atypical neuroleptics, and antiandrogens. Dr. Kreuger will present the data on the use of depot-gonadotropin releasing hormone analogues including their indications, contraindications, effects and side effects.

LUNCH SPEAKERS

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 25  COST - $38.00

L1 - Knowledge Isn’t Power; Knowledge Is Obligation  Joel Dvoskin, PhD

For more than twenty years, Dr. Joel Dvoskin has worked with and studied some of the most violent individuals in America. Dr. Dvoskin studied psychology and law at the University of Arizona, where he received his Ph.D. in clinical psychology in 1981. He subsequently completed a fellowship in forensic psychology at the Harvard Medical School. As a clinical psychologist, Dr. Dvoskin worked predominately in maximum security prison and hospital settings, serving violent offenders with serious mental illness. Dr. Dvoskin presided over the nation’s largest forensic mental health system for more than a decade, and served as New York State’s Acting Commissioner of Mental Health, running the nation’s largest mental health agency, with more than 23,000 employees and an annual operating budget of more than three billion dollars.

Dr. Dvoskin has attained national prominence as an expert in managing the risk of violent behavior and has appeared on national radio and television. Among many other topics, Dr. Dvoskin has lectured on management, domestic violence, the prevention of violence in schools and corporations, and mental health law and administration. He serves as a frequent expert witness, trainer, and public speaker, and has served as a consultant to federal agencies, and state, local and provincial governments throughout the United States and Canada. He has provided training and management consultation to corporate leaders from many Fortune 500 companies.

Dr. Dvoskin has worked with organizations as diverse as the United States Secret Service and the National Basketball Association. He is a Senior Consultant to the Threat Assessment Group, for which he has created workplace violence prevention programs for some of America’s largest companies. Dr. Dvoskin is also affiliated with Park Dietz and Associates, serving as a forensic psychology consultant and expert witness.

Dr. Dvoskin is a fellow of the American Psychological Association and the American Psychology-Law Society, and a Diplomate in Forensic Psychology by the American Board of Forensic Psychology. Dr. Dvoskin has been a long-time friend of AAPL. A frequent contributor to the AAPL Journal and annual meetings, he also serves as a member of the AAPL editorial board. In 1993, he received the AAPL Amicus Award for his years of service to the organization.

Dr. Dvoskin currently lives and works in Tucson, Arizona, where he maintains a private practice in forensic psychology and teaches on the faculty of the University of Arizona College of Medicine.
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 26
L2 - Innocent But Convicted: Some Observations About the Psychology of Those Who Survive
Barry C. Scheck, JD

Barry Scheck is a professor of Law at the Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law in New York City where he has served for over twenty-one years as the Director of Clinical Education, Trial Advocacy Programs, and the Jacob Burns Center for the Study of Law and Ethics. Scheck received his undergraduate degree from Yale University in 1971 and his JD from Boalt Hall School of Law, University of California at Berkeley in 1974. He worked for three years as a staff attorney at The Legal Aid Society in New York City before joining the faculty of Cardozo.

In 1988, Scheck and his colleague Peter Neufeld became involved in studying and litigating issues concerning the transfer of DNA technology to forensic applications. Their work in this area not only shaped the course of case law across the country but led to an influential study by the National Academy of Sciences on forensic DNA testing, as well as important state and federal legislation setting standards for the use of DNA testing. Scheck now serves as a Commission member on New York State's Commission on Forensic Science, a body that regulates all crime and forensic DNA laboratories in the state, pursuant to legislation he and Neufeld helped draft. Scheck also serves on the Board of Directors of the National Association of Criminal Defense Lawyers. In 1988, Scheck was appointed to be on the National Institute of Justice Commission on the Future of DNA Evidence. In February 1999, Scheck received the Distinguished Defense Attorney Award from Governor George E. Pataki “in recognition of uniting efforts to ensure that DNA technology is promoted and utilized by the Criminal Justice System to impact fairness in all criminal cases and to enhance Law Enforcement’s ability to fight crime in our communities.”

In 1992, Scheck and Neufeld established the Innocence Project, a clinical program at Cardozo Law School. The Innocence Project has either represented or assisted in the representation of 42 men who were exonerated through post conviction DNA testing and freed from lengthy prison sentences or the death penalty itself. Altogether, 79 individuals have been exonerated in the United States through post-conviction DNA testing since 1989.

Scheck is also well known for his representation of well-known defendants such as Hedda Nussbaum, OJ Simpson, Louise Woodward, and Abner Louima.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 27
L-3 - Mental Health Professionals and Police Negotiators: Forensic Crisis Colleagues, Not Adversaries
Frank A. Bolz, Jr

Frank A. Bolz, Jr. served in the New York City Police Department for more than 27 years, attaining the rank of Detective Captain. In 1972, after the tragedy of the Israeli athletes at the Munich Olympics, Bolz took part in the formation of the Department's “Guidelines for Barricaded Felons and Hostage Confrontations”. He, with Dr. Harvey Schlossberg, selected and trained the new Hostage Negotiating Team, and became the Commanding Officer and Chief Negotiator. He remained in that role for almost ten years, during which time he personally negotiated in more than 285 incidents, bringing about the safe release of more than 850 hostages, without the loss of life. Bolz was also the City-Wide Kidnap Taskforce Coordinator, training detectives in all phases of Kidnap Investigation and personally participating in 25 actual investigations.

He has trained representatives from over 3900 Law Enforcement Agencies in the U.S., Canada and abroad, including the F.B.I., the U.S. Secret Service, the State Department, and the United Nations. He has written many articles and training films on these subjects, and co-authored the book “Hostage Cop”, wrote “How to be a Hostage, and Live” and most recently co-authored the book, “The Counter-Terrorism Handbook: Tactics, Procedures and Techniques”. In addition, Bolz contributed to “Terrorism: The Threat, The Reality, The Response” by Dr. Robert Kupperman and Darrell Trent.

In 1982, he established Frank A. Bolz Associates, Inc. a New York based interdisciplinary consulting firm. Bolz is called upon regularly by law enforcement agencies during hostage incidents and by the broadcast press as an expert commentator and criminologist.

Some other credentials include expert witness testimony in litigations carried on in Federal and State Courts and testimony given at the U.S. Senate Judicial Committee’s hearing in Waco. Others include conducting security assessments of government and private facilities’ vulnerability to domestic and international terrorism. He also provides technical advice to journalists, novelists, and electronic media and the motion picture industry. Bolz has been the subject of the NY Sunday Times Magazine, CBS’s 60 Minutes, ABC’s 20/20, 2 BBC Documentaries, HBO Programs and the Discovery Channel’s programs.

Bolz and his associates have structured Crisis Management Programs for private corporations, furnishing specialized resources to assist Security Directors in carrying out their multi-faceted functions. In addition, training is also available for Government and Law Enforcement Agencies.
